Summary

The integrated LIFE (IP) project "Circular Economy Implementation in Greece" - LIFE-IP CEI-Greece (LIFE18 IPE/GR/000013) aims at contributing to the implementation of the National Waste Management Plan, the National Strategic Plan for Waste Prevention and the action plan of the National Circular Economy Strategy.

In the context of the sub-action A1.2 "Stakeholder engagement and needs assessment", the mapping of stakeholders that play an important role in the implementation of the circular economy in the field of waste in Greece has been realised. The results of this sub-action will support the implementation of the capacity building actions set out in Action C7 and the public awareness and dissemination activities under Action E1. As the identification of the stakeholders is considered a core process for all the project actions, the objective of the stakeholder mapping has been enlarged beyond the scope of sub-action A1.2, by taking into account targeting criteria associated with the stakeholders' contribution to other project actions as well.

The results of the stakeholder mapping present the enormously large number of stakeholders, depicting thus the whole range of the public administration, the academic, scientific and research community and the economic, social and productive stakeholders related to the development of circular economy. The list of stakeholders, though already extensive, is expected to be dynamic throughout the project.
